

Newcastle Observatory

2008 Moon Phase Calendar

The phase of the Moon is depicted for each day of the year at 19h (7 pm) Eastern Standard Time or 20h (8 pm) Eastern Daylight Savings Time, as applicable. The angle of the terminator (demarcation between the dark and lit areas) is to due the location of the Moon in the sky relative to the local horizon (the bottom edge of the page being the horizon).